Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☐ Responsive to communication(s) filed on ____.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.

DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The references listed in the Information Disclosure Statement filed on September 13, 2004 have been considered by the examiner (see attached PTO-1449 form or PTO/SB/08A and 08B forms).

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because of the problems addressed in the "Notice of Draftsperson's Patent Drawing Review" (PTO-948 form). Correction is required.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: The sentence reading, "The ring tone ring tone stop designation may be an elapsed time after the ring tone start designation", should be corrected by deleting one of "ring tone" in order to provide clarity and precision in the specification (paragraph 0008, line 1).

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Zhao et al. (US 2004/0204135 A1).

Regarding claim 1, Zhao discloses a method of creating a ring tone file (paragraph 18, lines 7-14), comprising the acts of:

receiving on a handset an electronic data file comprising a master recording (paragraph 41);

receiving on the handset a ring tone start designation for a first time, during an output of the master recording (paragraph 44, lines 1-8); receiving on the handset a ring tone stop designation for a second time during the output of the master recording (paragraph 44, lines 1-8);

creating a ring tone file from a portion of the electronic data file defined by the start designation and the stop designation (paragraph 44, lines 12-17); and making the ring tone file available for selection by a user (paragraph 45, lines 1-2).

Regarding claim 2, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 1). In addition, Zhao discloses that the ring tone stop designation comprises an elapsed time after the ring tone start designation (paragraph 44, lines 6-8).

Regarding claim 3, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 1). In addition, Zhao discloses that the step of receiving on the handset the electronic data file comprises receiving the electronic data file via a wireless signal (paragraph 21, lines 3-8 and 14-18).

Regarding claim 4 and 5, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 1). In addition, Zhao discloses that associating the ring tone file with an input communication source where the input communication source is one of a paging system and a telephone system (paragraph 21, lines 28-30).

Regarding claim 6, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 1). In addition, Zhao discloses a computer-readable storage medium (Figure 1, 45 (memory)) encoded with a computer program which, when loaded into a processor, implements the method of claim 1.

Regarding claim 7, Zhao discloses a handset comprising:

- a processor (paragraph 20, line 3);

- a memory coupled to the processor (paragraph 20, line 3; paragraph 24, lines 2-3);

- a user interface coupled to the processor (paragraph 20, line 4; paragraph 34 lines 1-2); and a user-defined ring tone file stored in the memory, wherein the stored ring tone file is defined by the user entering a ring tone start designation for a master recording data file and by the user entering a ring tone stop designation for the master recording data file (claim 1).

Regarding claim 8, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 7). In addition, Zhao discloses that the ring tone stop designation comprises an elapsed time after the ring tone start designation (paragraph 44, lines 6-8).

Regarding claims 9 and 10, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 7). In addition, Zhao discloses a wireless handset comprising one of a cellular phone, a personal digital assistant, and a pager (paragraph 21, lines 28-30).

Regarding claims 11-13, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 7). In addition, Zhao discloses that the user-defined ring tone file is associated with an input communication source where the input communication source is one of a paging system and a telephone system (paragraph 21, lines 28-30).

Regarding claim 14, Zhao discloses a method of manufacturing a wireless handset, comprising the acts of:

- configuring the handset to receive an electronic data file comprising a master recording (paragraph 38, lines 1-4);

- configuring the handset to receive a first user input, wherein the first user input enables the user to input a ring tone start designation for a first time during an output of the master recording (paragraph 38, lines 11-14);

- configuring the handset to receive a second user input, wherein the second user input enables the user to input a ring tone stop designation for a second time during the output of the master recording (paragraph 30, lines 3-6);

- configuring the handset to create a ring tone file from a portion of the electronic data file defined by the start designation and the stop designation (paragraph, lines 3-6);
and

- configuring the handset to make the ring tone file available for selection by the user (paragraph 30, lines 6-8).

Regarding claim 15, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 14). In addition, Zhao discloses that the ring tone stop designation comprises an elapsed time after the ring tone start designation (paragraph 44, lines 6-8).

Regarding claim 16, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 14). In addition, Zhao discloses the step of configuring the handset to receive the electronic data file comprises configuring the handset to receive the electronic data file via a wireless signal (paragraph 21, lines 3-8, 14-18).

Regarding claims 17 and 18, Zhao discloses everything claimed as applied above (see claim 14). In addition, Zhao discloses configuring handset to associate the ring tone with an input communication source where the input communication source is one of a paging system and a telephone system (paragraph 21, lines 28-30).

Citation of Pertinent Prior Art

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Armanto (US Patent 6,094,587) discloses a method for programming a ringing tone of a telephone.

Conclusion

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Lameka J. Kirk whose telephone number is 571-270-1662. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday 7:30am-5pm EST.
